

MISS BOOTH TO OBEY RECALL AS LEADER

Discourages Suggestion of a Petition Against Order Issued by General.

Evangeline Booth made this statement yesterday regarding her prospective recall from the commandship of the Salvation Army in this country:

"I have just received a direct message from Gen. Bramwell Booth which confirms his previous statement to the newspapers that there is no definite date fixed for any change in the administration of Salvation Army affairs in the United States.

"The general makes it clear in his cable that there is no new development, as it was understood at the time of the change in the organization, when the three territories were instituted and the three commissioners appointed, that at a time to be decided upon the three commissioners would be reporting direct to international headquarters, which would automatically do away with the necessity of the position of a national commander and national headquarters, although 'some one would be appointed to serve as head of the army business corporations only.'"

Miss Booth and her principal advisers have discouraged a suggestion that a petition protesting against her retirement be signed by her subordinates and circulated through the United States. The Salvation Army leaders here regard such a proposal as being distinctly out of keeping with the system of discipline to which they all subscribe.

"It would not be in keeping with the principles of the Salvation Army or the practice of its chief officers," said Col. Anderson, national secretary. "When Gen. Bramwell issues an order to a Colonel the Colonel does not go about working up feeling against the carrying out of the order. I think it may be taken for granted that Gen. Booth is completely alive to the world situation. He consults his leading officers all the time and is in almost daily conference with Commander Booth as matters of world interest. It is possible that Commander Booth is needed for a larger field of service than any single country. Her service of eighteen years as commander in the United States is unprecedented. If it is decided that she shall go elsewhere genuine sorrow will be felt throughout the country, and naturally it is hoped that the order may be long delayed."

Col. Anderson said he had heard no intimation that much of the army's financial support might be withdrawn if Miss Booth were transferred. "If it be shown that she is still needed here I think that would be more important than any suggestion of the withdrawal of funds," he remarked. A three days' conference of regional chiefs of the army held at national headquarters, 122 West Fourteenth street, closed yesterday.

For Crisp Early Fall Days Wear Comfortable Shoes

Soon the crisp, delightful days of early fall will be upon us—days when you feel so alive and vigorous that housework goes off with a snap, office routine is like play, and everything seems more interesting. The out-of-doors calls, bidding you take long tramps through rustling leaves, fragrant pine woods, or across open fields yellowed by the first frosts of autumn.

Real enjoyment, like health and mental efficiency, often starts at the feet. Certainly the pleasure you get out of this season of the year, around which poets have woven delightful romances, depends much upon the shoes you wear. For if your feet lag over russet fields, or at your work, so that the joy of anticipation is lacking, you miss the real fun that should be yours in tramping, golfing, motoring, playing tennis, calling, shopping or whatever you do.

Those who wear the

know what a comfort Cantilevers are because they fit perfectly and give proper support to the whole foot structure.

It is the flexible shank of Cantilevers—that allows free action to the muscles, ligaments and joints—which gives that light, springy step to thousands of wearers in every walk of life all over the country. Ordinary shoes hold the feet rigid because they have a strip of steel concealed in the arch where Cantilevers, being free from it, allow the normal exercise so necessary to keep the foot strong and supple.

Cantilever shoes are daily growing in popularity. Women like them for their trim, stylish appearance, and for the comfortable rounded toe and low or medium heel. Buy a pair tomorrow and get the full enjoyment out of crisp early fall days.
